My Time at Woking Swimming Club:

I spent 12 years at WSC and have some of my fondest memories there, having made some great friendships over the years. Some stand out memories include the annual open meet weekends in Bournemouth (which were also a favourite for the boozy parents), training weekends in the freezing pool that was Crystal Palace (before the trips were upgraded to Cyprus), the Saturday night galas and helping out with the younger children at the Diddies.

For the majority of my time at WSC, I trained under the coaching of John & Karen Eastwood and then Vince Ayling in my last couple years at the club before university. I was lucky enough to be women's vice-captain and then captain in 2011 and 2012 respectively. I regularly competed at the Surreys, medalling in breaststroke events, and on the rare occasion made appearances at the Regionals.

For those that know me, its safe to say that Katherine Robbings and I were rarely were apart. We were regularly warned for talking too much and distracting others. We remain just as close as we were back when we swam.
together.

My time at University:

I loved my 3 years spent at the University of Birmingham, part of which included being part of the First Swimming Team. I wasn't exactly the most committed swimmer at uni – much more committed to the sports nights – but I loved being part of the team and getting the opportunity to represent my university at BUCS.

Since leaving University, I completed a graduate scheme at PwC in Birmingham and am now a qualified chartered accountant. I have recently moved to London and am considering my next job move. I stopped swimming when I left uni and would probably struggle to swim for more than 200m now!
